Dear Julie Heaberlin:

I am writing in response to your ad for a Music Critic posted on Media Bistro.com.

For eleven years I was the primary pop music columnist for the largest weekly in Philadelphia, The Welcomat, which has since evolved into Philadelphia Weekly. During that time I also freelanced for several other regionally based music publications.

I covered all genres of popular music from the earliest blues and country on up to alternative music in all its forms. My taste in music is extensive.

For print and radio I have interviewed several major artists and legends including George Jones, James Brown, (members of) The Band, Muddy Waters, Lucinda Williams, Carl Perkins, Fats Domino, Ry Cooder and Dr. John to name a few.

Enclosed is my resume and several clips, including articles published on the Internet, which have generated a large and enthusiastic response.

Of course, I am willing to relocate to Fort Worth.

Thank you for your consideration. I look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Peter S. Brown
